

Jon Turk

Senior Paralegal

jturk@cooley.com

Emerging Companies
Venture Capital
Fund Formation

Washington, DC

Jon Turk is a senior paralegal in Cooley's business department. He focuses on corporate and securities law and concentrates his practice on securities transactions, emerging companies and fund formation. His experience includes a range of corporate and securities matters, including private placements, venture capital financings, M&A, corporate maintenance and Securities and Exchange Commission compliance.

Prior to joining Cooley in 2011, he worked as a paralegal specialist at the US Department of Justice, Antitrust Division, investigating mergers in the technology sector highlighted by serving as lead paralegal on the division's investigation of Google's proposed acquisition of Yahoo.

Education

University of North Texas
BA, 2006