Tamim works with emerging companies throughout their lifecycles, with a focus on high-growth companies in the technology space. He also advises venture capital funds, corporate VCs and angel investors who invest in early-stage private companies. Tamim has a deep understanding of New York's entrepreneurial ecosystem and has worked across multiple verticals while developing a particular interest in foodtech and impact investing. In addition to the US, Tamim also has a robust practice in France and in LatAm. He also actively mentors emerging companies at all stages.
