Kevin Mills has 20+ years of experience focused on the media and communications industries. He is a trusted business and legal advisor to major media companies, private equity firms and entrepreneurs in the cable, broadcast, publishing, technology, online, digital media, marketing and sports-related sectors. He has negotiated and closed numerous corporate buyouts, mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures, investments and strategic partnerships. He also negotiates commercial and media contracts and advises clients on other general corporate and business matters.

Kevin is typically engaged early-on in transaction planning stages to assist with shaping the business and legal direction and strategy. With a full service practice that incorporates the firm's subject matter experts to implement tax-planning and financing strategies and navigate the regulatory environment as well as intellectual property and employment issues, he draws on his experience with a wide variety of transactions and agreements to provide business-oriented legal solutions. He regularly works with investment bankers and appraisal firms.

In 2019, Kevin was recognized by The Deal as Entertainment/Media Dealmaker of the Year.
