Cooley

Daniel Sellwood

Associate

dsellwood@cooley.com

+44 (0) 20 7556 4240

London

Patent Counseling and Prosecution
Intellectual Property
Life Sciences and Healthcare
Medtech
Technology

Daniel is a UK and European patent attorney with experience in a wide range of life sciences IP matters. He advises clients in relation to biotech, pharmaceutical and medical device patents in a diverse range of fields including formulation, immunotherapeutic, antibody and assay technologies.

Prior to joining Cooley, Daniel was a technical assistant at Mintz Levin. Before entering the patent profession, he gained over three years experience as a scientist in the biotech and pharmaceutical industries.

Education

Queen Mary University of London MS, 2007

University of Bristol BS, 2002

Admissions & Credentials

European Patent Office

UK Intellectual Property Office

Representative before Unified Patent Court

Memberships & Affiliations

Chartered Institute of Patent Attorneys

European Patent Institute