

May 7, 2012

Until the end of 2012, the federal gift, estate and generation-skipping transfer (GST) tax rates are 35%, and each person has a $5,120,000 exemption from all three types of taxes.

Why use your gift tax exemption this year?

2012 transfer tax laws set to expire

Unless Congress enacts further legislation, effective January 1, 2013, each of the gift, GST and estate tax exemptions automatically decreases from $5,120,000 to $1,000,000, and the tax rates increase to a maximum of 55%.

The important point is that for the remainder of 2012, each person has the potential to gift an additional $4,120,000 tax-free to his or her beneficiaries, and this opportunity expires at the end of 2012 when the gift tax exemption returns to $1,000,000. Moreover, any post-transfer appreciation on the gifted property passes to such beneficiaries free of transfer taxes.

Gifting to a GST Trust

To further leverage tax-savings opportunities, a donor may make his or her gift to a "GST Trust" for family members and allocate GST tax exemption to the transfer. A GST Trust is structured to avoid taxation for multiple generations by having future distributions to grandchildren and more remote issue be made free of estate and GST taxes.

Even if you do not wish to make gifts at this time, consider allocating your additional GST exemption in 2012 to prior gifts in trust that are not GST exempt.

Contact us

Please contact us as soon as possible to discuss these estate planning opportunities. Whether you should utilize your additional gift and GST tax exemptions this year depends on many factors, and we would be happy to discuss them with you. We encourage you to consult with us well before the end of 2012.

This content is provided for general informational purposes only, and your access or use of the content does not create an attorney-client relationship between you or your organization and Cooley LLP, Cooley (UK) LLP, or any other affiliated practice or entity (collectively referred to as "Cooley"). By accessing this content, you agree that the information provided does not constitute legal or other professional advice. This content is not a substitute for obtaining legal advice from a qualified attorney licensed in your jurisdiction, and you should not act or refrain from acting based on this content. This content may be changed without notice. It is not guaranteed to be complete, correct or up to date, and it may not reflect the most current legal developments. Prior results do not guarantee a similar outcome. Do not send any confidential information to Cooley, as we do not have any duty to keep any information you provide to us confidential. When advising companies, our attorney-client relationship is with the company, not with any individual. This content may have been generated with the assistance of artificial intelligence (AI) in accordance with our AI Principles, may be considered Attorney Advertising and is subject to our legal notices.

This information is a general description of the law; it is not intended to provide specific legal advice nor is it intended to create an attorney-client relationship with Cooley LLP. Before taking any action on this information you should seek professional counsel.

Copyright © 2023 Cooley LLP, 3175 Hanover Street, Palo Alto, CA 94304; Cooley (UK) LLP, 22 Bishopsgate, London, UK EC2N 4BQ. Permission is granted to make and redistribute, without charge, copies of this entire document provided that such copies are complete and unaltered and identify Cooley LLP as the author. All other rights reserved.