

Trina Kwon

Associate

tkwon@cooley.com

+1 202 776 2145

Washington, DC

Communications Regulatory Communications
Telecommunications and Wireless
Cyber/Data/Privacy
Cybersecurity
CooleyREG
Technology
National Security

Trina represents domestic and international clients in the telecommunications, media and technology (TMT) industry in various transactional, regulatory and litigation matters. She assists clients with structuring and negotiating technology agreements – including licensing and networking infrastructure contracts, such as submarine cable joint build and supply agreements, master services agreements, telecommunications services procurement and cloud computing contracts. Trina also advises financial institutions, private equity firms and venture capital funds on investments in the TMT sector and other financial arrangements.

In addition, Trina advises clients with respect to federal and state infrastructure funding programs administered by the US Departments of Commerce, Treasury and Agriculture, as well as various state broadband authorities. She also represents clients before the Federal Communications Commission and state public utility commissions on matters such as domestic and international licensing, regulatory compliance with regard to corporate transactions, and rulemaking proceedings.

Education

The George Washington University Law School
JD, 2020

Tufts University
BA, International Relations and Economics, 2013

Admissions & Credentials

District of Columbia

Rankings & Accolades

Recognized on the Lawyers of Color Hot List (2022)

Memberships & Affiliations

Federal Communications Bar Association

American Bar Association (ABA)