Helen leads Cooley's office operations and administration teams in London, Brussels and Asia. At the core of her broad and varied role is making sure that the firm's flourishing and growing international offices are supported from an operational and strategic perspective. Helen also leads the teams responsible for providing consistent and high-quality internal client services.

Helen's background as a litigator and partner means that she is well-placed to understand where operations and administration teams can add real value and have a truly positive impact on the working lives of the firm's lawyers and professional staff and the service they provide to Cooley's clients.
