Cooley

Simah Bargzie

Director of Strategy and Practice Management, Life Sciences

sbargzie@cooley.com

+1 415 693 2727

San Francisco

As director of strategy and practice management for the life sciences industry vertical, Simah leads the development and execution of strategic initiatives that drive growth, innovation and operational excellence across the firm's life sciences practice. Working closely with firm leadership, Simah oversees practice management, analyzes industry trends, competitive dynamics and emerging opportunities to help align the practice's goals.

Through a combination of strategic planning, operational leadership and industry insight, Simah helps strengthen the firm's market presence and delivers exceptional value to advancing life sciences industry goals at Cooley.

Education

University of California, Berkeley, School of Law JD

California State University, East Bay BA, Communications