Cooley

Cristina Ferruolo

Associate

cferruolo@cooley.com

+1 858 550 6284

San Diego

Commercial Litigation
Securities Litigation + Enforcement
Product Compliance and Product Litigation
CooleyREG

Cristina's practice includes complex commercial, product compliance and securities litigation matters, as well as pro bono work. She represents clients ranging from startups to industry leaders across a broad spectrum of sectors.

Cristina regularly advises clients on product issues, including regulatory compliance, risk assessment and mitigation, warning and labeling, and crisis management. Her product compliance advisement, litigation and arbitration experience spans international product segments such as consumer products, medical devices, automotive, robotics and autonomous systems, and industrial equipment.

Cristina also handles securities litigation matters, representing clients in connection with Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) and US Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) investigations, as well as internal corporate investigations. Her clients include companies in industries such as biotechnology, pharmaceuticals and apparel.

In addition to her product compliance and securities litigation matters, Cristina maintains a focus on generic commercial litigation, handling complex commercial litigation matters in both federal and state courts.

Education

Boston College Law School JD, 2021

Colgate University BA, 2018

Admissions & Credentials

California

Rankings & Accolades

Public Counsel Pro Bono Award