Teresa is an accomplished litigator who represents industry-leading companies on a range of cutting-edge disputes, including complex business disputes, class actions, intellectual property and international arbitration. Her practice focuses primarily on complex cross-border issues for the technology industry, and she has earned significant, precedent-setting wins on novel theories of liability for platforms, software, ecommerce and gaming companies. Throughout her multi-jurisdictional career, Teresa has successfully defended clients in courts and tribunals across the United States, England, Hong Kong and Singapore. She has managed contract and business tort disputes; consumer class actions involving consumer protection, false advertising, unfair business practices, data privacy and breach actions, wiretapping, and anti-gambling laws; copyright and trademark disputes; trade secret misappropriation; Section 230 of the Communications Decency Act; and the defense of other statutory and common law claims.

Teresa also regularly advises global companies on litigation avoidance and preparedness practices, including privilege risks, contract provisions, artificial intelligence, ecommerce terms and conditions, content moderation and regulation, gaming regulations, consumer regulatory concerns, data privacy and security practices, advertising and marketing claims, and intellectual property protection.

Teresa is admitted to practice law in California, New York, Texas, England and Wales. She is a Certified Information Privacy Professional/United States (CIPP/US).
