Madison Jones practices corporate and securities law, representing late-stage private and publicly traded companies and underwriters, with a particular emphasis on capital markets transactions within two of the most rapidly growing industries: technology and life sciences. She has extensive experience counseling clients on the full range of general corporate and securities matters, including IPOs, public offerings, strategic corporate relationships, SEC reporting and compliance and corporate governance.

Madison has been repeatedly recognized as a leading attorney, deal expert and trusted advisor who understands the intricacies of her clients' industries and helps them navigate and solve complex challenges with a very practical, business-oriented approach.

Over the past five years, Madison has advised over 25 IPOs and public offerings, with an aggregate value greater than $7.1 billion.

Representative company-side and underwriter-side public offerings:

- PhaseBio Pharmaceuticals – $46 million IPO
- Epizyme – aggregate $236 million for multiple follow-on offerings
- Argenx – aggregate of $317.4 million IPO and follow-on offering
- Endava – $145.8 million IPO
- Tenable Holdings – $288.3 million IPO
