

Chris Chynoweth

Special Counsel

cchynoweth@cooley.com

Technology Transactions Intellectual Property

Sports+

Digital Media and Entertainment

Technology Digital Health

New York

+1 650 843 5372

Chris assists and advises clients in a wide range of industries, and at all stages of their life cycles with their commercial, technology and intellectual property strategy and transactions. Chris advises on drafts and negotiates complex intellectual property license agreements, agreements associated with technology and IP acquisitions and agreements with key customers, developers, manufacturers, suppliers and channel partners.

His practice also includes preparing and negotiating media, sports, entertainment, event sponsorship, content licensing and endorsement agreements.

Prior to joining Cooley in 2019, Chris worked for a number of years as in-house counsel at FOX SPORTS Australia, advising on a range of commercial and intellectual property agreements. Prior to that, Chris was a corporate associate at a top tier international law firm in Sydney, Australia, which included secondment experience at both Australia's largest sports gambling company and largest supermarket retailer.

Chris graduated in the top 1% of his class and served as law student body president at the Australian National University. Chris also spent time studying intellectual property at Universitá Bocconi in Milan, Italy and McGill University in Montréal, Canada. At Harvard Law School, Chris was a board member on the Harvard Association for Law and Business, a submissions editor on the Harvard Journal of Sports and Entertainment Law and was starting halfback for the HBS Rugby XV.

Education

Harvard Law School LLM, Straight Honors and Dean's Scholar

The Australian National University LLB, First Class Honors

The Australian National University B.Comm, Finance, Distinction

Admissions & Credentials

California

New South Wales, Australia

New York

Court Admissions

High Court of Australia

Supreme Court of New South Wales (AUS)