Camille's practice covers a range of corporate matters, drawing on her knowledge of corporate governance and cross-border frameworks to help clients address needs in areas such as venture financing and M&A.

During law school, she served as an article editor for Penn Carey Law's Journal of Business Law. She also participated in the school's Custody and Support Assistance Clinic, advocating for parents navigating Pennsylvania's family court system, and assisted asylum clients through the school's Transnational Legal Clinic.
