Dusan's practice centers on reviewing and analyzing electronically stored information (ESI) in litigation and regulatory investigation matters, with a focus on identifying key evidence. His work includes project management and supervision of review teams, quality control, and privilege review. Dusan also leverages artificial intelligence and other technologies in eDiscovery, leading to more efficient, cost-effective review for clients.

Dusan's pro bono practice focuses on wrongful conviction cases and immigration asylum applications. Before joining Cooley, he used his chemistry background and pharmaceutical industry experience to counsel clients on intellectual property matters.
