Hatch-Waxman Litigation

Lauren's practice focuses on intellectual property litigation with an emphasis on patent litigation. She handles cases spanning a broad range of technologies, including antibody therapeutics, pharmaceutical formulations, computer software, user interface design and video surveillance systems.

Lauren has experience with all phases of litigation, including all aspects of discovery, taking and defending depositions, claim construction, expert reports, motions practice, oral argument and trial. Her practice also includes Hatch-Waxman litigation, cases arising under the abbreviated regulatory pathway for biosimilars (BPCIA) and post-grant proceedings at the US Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO).

While in law school, she received numerous Witkin and CALI Awards for academic excellence in various subject areas, including contracts and food and drug law. She also served as an editor for the Santa Clara High Technology Law Journal, externed for Technology Center 1600 (Biotechnology) at the USPTO in Washington, DC, and prosecuted patent applications in cloud computing.
