Kristine represents clients in a variety of complex litigation matters. She has successfully defended numerous class action matters, and she represents clients in claims involving breach of contract, unfair competition, computer fraud, privacy violations (including the California Invasion of Privacy Act and the Illinois Biometric Information Privacy Act), trade secrets, and unfair competition. Her clients include technology giants and innovators, as well as investors, in industries such as social media, ecommerce, travel, mobile gaming, medical technology, personal electronics, transportation and education. Forbes magazine named Kristine to its annual list of America's Top Lawyers for 2025, recognizing her for excellence in litigation.

In addition, Kristine regularly advises on and pursues insurance coverage for clients. She has achieved fast, favorable resolutions for numerous clients confronting denials of coverage or reservations of rights by their insurance carriers.

Kristine's practice also includes environmental advice and litigation. She assists with environmental due diligence, and she counsels clients on environmental risks in business and real estate transactions.

Kristine's recent experience includes:

- Securing a victory for Booking.com against Ryanair in a novel US Computer Fraud and Abuse Act lawsuit filed in the US District Court for the District of Delaware
- Obtaining a temporary restraining order and summary judgment for Jenner & Block against US Executive Order 14246 ("Addressing Risks From Jenner & Block")
- Securing a dismissal for Google in a putative class action lawsuit asserting that Google's Cloud Contact Center AI (CCAI) technology violates the California Invasion of Privacy Act (CIPA)
