Commercial Litigation

Samantha represents innovative clients in high-stakes disputes, with a focus on government investigations and enforcement, and commercial litigation.

At Georgetown Law, Samantha was a legal writing fellow and an executive board member for the Latin American Law Student Association. She also was a student attorney with the Civil Rights Clinic, where she successfully represented an individual who was the victim of police brutality and carceral abuse. Samantha applies these experiences, in conjunction with her background in civil rights oral history work, to zealously advocate for her clients in court. Her pro bono practice centers on strengthening civil rights, racial justice and criminal justice reform.
