Jasmin is a commercial litigator with experience defending companies in complex product liability matters, wrongful death and catastrophic personal injury matters, mass tort litigation, employment litigation, and business disputes. She focuses on defending product manufacturers in litigation, especially in the aviation industry. Her clients include airlines, aviation product manufacturers, various aviation services companies and consumer product manufacturers. She also represents employers in litigation matters on a variety of individual claims, including wrongful termination, harassment, discrimination and retaliation.

Jasmin has extensive experience litigating cases in state and federal courts, as well as arbitrations and trial experience.

During her studies at Loyola Law School, she served as a judicial extern to Judge Robert Gary Klausner of the US District Court for the Central District of California.
