

John Habibi

Associate

JHabibi@cooley.com

+1 202 776 2137

Washington, DC

Intellectual Property
Intellectual Property Litigation
Life Sciences and Healthcare
Life Sciences IP Litigation
Technology
Hatch-Waxman Litigation

John focuses on patent and complex commercial litigation matters. He represents a diverse set of clients within the pharmaceutical, medical device, technology and software industries.

At The George Washington University Law School, John was a part-time evening student while working full time as a government contractor. During law school, John was a member of The George Washington Law Review. Before pursuing a JD, John worked in the biotechnology industry as an associate scientist while obtaining a master's degree in biotechnology. Working in a good manufacturing practice (GMP) environment, John was responsible for projects involving entities ranging from small startups to industry titans within the biotechnology and pharmaceutical sectors.

Education

The George Washington University Law School JD, Intellectual Property Law concentration, with honors, 2022

University of Maryland, Baltimore County MPS, Biotechnology, 2017

University of Maryland, Baltimore County BA, Biological Sciences, 2015

Admissions & Credentials

District of Columbia

US Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO)

Memberships & Affiliations

American Bar Association (ABA)

American Intellectual Property Law Association

