

Juan Lorente Sorolla

Associate

jlorentesorolla@cooley.com

+1 650 843 5273

Palo Alto

Technology

Artificial Intelligence

Life Sciences

Commercial Litigation

Securities Litigation + Enforcement

Juan handles complex commercial and securities litigation matters, as well as regulatory investigations. He represents leaders and innovators in various industries, including technology, venture capital and biosciences. Juan also maintains a robust pro bono practice.

While at Harvard Law School, Juan was the submissions editor for the Harvard Journal of Law & Technology, where he led a team with diverse technological backgrounds to review and select articles from hundreds of submissions at the intersection of law and technology. He was also a research and teaching assistant to professor Charles Nesson, focusing on the history of the jury in the American legal system and proposing avenues for reform.

Education

Harvard Law School

JD , 2024

Schreyer Honors College at Penn State

BS student marshal (valedictorian), 2019

Admissions & Credentials

California