Stella Sarma focuses her practice on EU, UK and Greek competition law, advising clients on merger control and global cartel investigations. She has unparalleled experience steering worldwide merger control proceedings in complex cross-border transactions before the European Commission and UK CMA, particularly in the technology and healthcare industries. She regularly guides multijurisdictional antitrust investigations at the EC, UK and national levels, especially in the automotive and tech sectors.

Prior to private practice, Stella gained experience in corporate and competition law in the legal department of a pharmaceutical company in Paris, France and during internships at Greek law firms.
