

Alex Cubaleski

Associate

acubaleski@cooley.com

+1 212 479 6889

New York

Commercial Litigation
White Collar Defense and Investigations
Workplace Investigations
Pro Bono

Alex is a complex litigator and strategic advisor to leading technology companies and high-profile individuals facing high-stakes risk. Her practice spans federal and state litigation, appellate advocacy, and sensitive internal and government investigations. She counsels clients through moments of significant legal, regulatory and reputational exposure – partnering closely with leaders to assess risk, develop forward-looking strategy and drive efficient resolution.

Alex is known for her strategic judgment and ability to distill complex legal issues into actionable guidance for decision-makers. She is a poised and agile advocate in live proceedings, thinking quickly on her feet and protecting client interests in high-pressure settings. She has significant experience with dispositive motion practice, managing large-scale, complex discovery, and first- and second-chairing depositions across jurisdictions.

In addition to her commercial practice, Alex maintains a robust pro bono docket focused on civil rights, reproductive justice, immigrant rights, voting rights, climate justice and international human rights. Since 2022, she has represented a client on death row in Texas through federal habeas proceedings, subsequent state habeas petitions and clemency efforts – work that reflects her deep commitment to constitutional advocacy and high-stakes strategic litigation.

Education

New York University School of Law JD, 2021

Brooklyn College MS, Childhood Education, 2017

New York University, Leonard N. Stern School of Business BS, Business and Political Economy, 2015

Admissions & Credentials

New York

