Cooley

Matthew Clauss

Associate

mclauss@cooley.com

+1 202 776 2387

Washington, DC

Intellectual Property Litigation

Matthew represents clients in complex commercial disputes, particularly patent litigation matters. His work encompasses many technologies, including medical devices, biologics and small-molecule drugs.

In law school, Matthew served as an editor of the Harvard Journal of Law & Technology and as a research assistant to professor William Fisher. He also participated in the school's Health Law and Policy Clinic.

Education

Harvard Law School JD, cum laude, 2025

University of Southern California BS, Biomedical Engineering, summa cum laude, 2022

Admissions & Credentials

District of Columbia